ANNEXURE-E
MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION & ANALYSIS

GLOBAL ECONOMIC OVERVIEW

The global economy continues to show signs of resilience amid persistent challenges and shifting macroeconomic conditions. According to the latest World Economic Outlook, global growth is now projected at 3.0% for 2025, with a further uptick to 3.1% in 2026. This upward revision from earlier forecasts reflects several positive developments, including the front-loading of demand ahead of anticipated tariff adjustments, more favourable financial conditions, lower effective tariff rates, and fiscal expansion in key economies.

While these factors are contributing to improved short-term momentum, the medium-term global outlook remains marked by caution. Global inflation is gradually easing, a trend that offers some relief for both consumers and businesses. However, inflation in the United States one of the largest consumer markets for gold and luxury goods is expected to remain above the Federal Reserve's target range, suggesting continued vigilance in monetary policy. Persistent inflationary pressures in such mature markets could influence consumer spending behaviour, particularly in discretionary segments such as luxury jewellery.

Despite the improved growth projections, downside risks remain prominent. Rising protectionist sentiments have raised concerns around potentially higher tariffs, particularly across sectors sensitive to global trade dynamics. Additionally, geopolitical tensions, especially in resource-rich regions, and elevated economic policy uncertainty in major economies continue to weigh on investor and consumer confidence.

In this context, restoring economic predictability, policy coordination, and global trade stability has become a priority for policymakers worldwide. For the gold jewellery industry, which is intricately linked to both global commodity trends and consumer sentiment, these macroeconomic factors present a mixed landscape. On one hand, the stabilisation of inflation and stronger economic growth can support demand for luxury products; on the other, the volatility in gold prices, currency fluctuations, and shifting import/export regulations require businesses to remain agile and proactive in their strategic planning.

Looking ahead, the industry will need to closely monitor not only consumer confidence and disposable income trends but also geopolitical developments and trade policies that could directly affect raw material sourcing, production costs, and cross-border sales.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

The gold jewellery industry is one of the most significant segments within the Indian economy, not only in terms of its contribution to GDP but also because of its cultural, social, and economic importance. India is the largest consumer of gold jewellery globally, with demand deeply rooted in traditions, festivals, weddings, and as a preferred form of investment. The industry's scale and diversity span from large organized retailers and branded chains to numerous small-scale artisans and unorganized players, reflecting a complex and multifaceted market landscape.

Over the last decade, the industry has witnessed transformational shifts driven by economic growth, changing demographics, and evolving consumer preferences. Rising urbanization and the emergence of a young, aspirational middle class have been significant growth drivers, leading to increased demand for contemporary and lifestyle jewellery, beyond the traditional heavy and ornate designs. This demographic is also more tech-savvy, seeking convenience and transparency, which has accelerated the adoption of digital channels and e-commerce in the jewellery space.

The regulatory landscape has also played a pivotal role in shaping the industry's evolution. The Government of India's initiatives like mandatory hallmarking, introduction of the Goods and Services Tax (GST), and restrictions on gold imports have enhanced transparency and encouraged formalization within the sector. These measures have benefited organized players by creating a level playing field and fostering consumer confidence in quality and purity standards.

Furthermore, the global gold market dynamics, including price volatility influenced by geopolitical factors, currency fluctuations, and macroeconomic conditions, continue to impact the Indian jewellery industry. Despite these challenges, gold remains a preferred asset class in India due to its historical and cultural significance, which tends to insulate demand from short-term disruptions.

Emerging trends such as ethical sourcing, sustainable practices, and traceability are gaining momentum globally and beginning to influence Indian consumers' buying behavior. Increasingly, customers are demanding assurance that their jewellery is sourced responsibly, sparking innovation in supply chain transparency and certification processes.

The rise of organized retail, branded jewellery chains, and technology adoption has also shifted competitive dynamics. Customers today expect not only product variety and quality but also exceptional service, customization options, and omnichannel experiences blending physical and digital touchpoints. Retailers investing in advanced design technologies like Computer-Aided Design (CAD), 3D printing, and augmented reality (AR) virtual try-ons are better positioned to capture evolving market segments.

Additionally, the sector is witnessing increased collaboration between traditional craftsmanship and modern design sensibilities, enabling the creation of unique products that appeal to a broader audience, including millennials and younger consumers who prioritize individuality and style.

Looking ahead, the Indian gold jewellery industry is poised for sustained growth, supported by rising incomes, expanding urbanization, increasing female workforce participation, and evolving consumer lifestyles. However, players must remain agile and innovative to navigate regulatory complexities, price fluctuations, and shifting consumer expectations to harness the full potential of this vibrant market.

Indian Jewelry Market

The Indian gems and jewellery industry continue to play a vital role in the country's economy, contributing around 7% to GDP and over 14% to merchandise exports. With India being the second-largest consumer of gold globally, the demand for both traditional and contemporary jewellery remains resilient despite macroeconomic headwinds.

The post-pandemic recovery, rising disposable incomes, and increased urbanization have significantly contributed to the rebound in consumer sentiment, especially in Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities. The organized retail segment continues to expand rapidly, driven by brand trust, hallmarking regulation, and evolving consumer preferences.

The Indian gems and jewellery industry continue to benefit from progressive government initiatives aimed at boosting domestic consumption and exports. The Union Budget 2025–26 brought significant relief to the industry:

Reduction in Customs Tariff: The customs duty on jewellery was reduced from 25% to 20%, making gold and diamond jewellery more affordable and thereby supporting domestic demand. For platinum-based jewellery components, particularly platinum findings, the duty was slashed from 25% to 5%, potentially lowering production costs and increasing design diversity in the premium jewellery segment.

These policy changes reflect the government’s recognition of the jewellery sector as a vital contributor to employment, exports, and MSME growth.

In January 2024, Hon’ble Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi inaugurated the Bharat Ratnam Mega Common Facilitation Centre (CFC) at SEEPZ SEZ, Mumbai. The project, developed collaboratively by the Ministry of Commerce & Industry, GJEPC India, and SEEPZ SEZ Authority, is positioned as a socio-economic growth driver for India’s jewellery manufacturing sector.

The facility offers world-class infrastructure, R&D support, and access to advanced technology for MSMEs, artisans, and exporters.

It promotes skill development, innovation, and global competitiveness, aligning with the Aatmanirbhar Bharat (Self-Reliant India) vision.

The Mega CFC is expected to significantly boost exports, facilitate ease of doing business, and nurture a robust jewellery manufacturing ecosystem.

The commendation of this initiative by Union Minister Shri Piyush Goyal in June 2024 further reinforces its strategic importance in enhancing India’s global positioning in the gems and jewellery value chain.

Opportunities, Risk, Threats and Concern

Opportunities

Growing Demand in Tier 2 and Tier 3 Cities:

With increasing urbanization and rising disposable income in smaller towns and rural areas, there's a significant opportunity to expand retail presence in these high-potential markets.

Digital Transformation and E-commerce Growth:

The surge in online shopping has opened up new avenues for jewellery retail through e-commerce platforms, mobile apps, and social media marketing. Virtual try-on technology, video consultations, and home delivery services can attract tech-savvy and convenience-oriented customers.

Rising Preference for Certified Jewellery:

Consumers are increasingly opting for jewellery with hallmark certification and transparent billing. This shift offers organized players an opportunity to capture greater market share from the unorganized sector.

Customization and Personalization:

Customers, particularly millennials, are looking for unique, customized jewellery pieces that reflect their personality. Offering made-to-order designs and bespoke services can enhance customer loyalty and margins.

Increased Role of Women in Purchase Decisions:

The growing financial independence of women and their influence on household spending is driving demand for self-purchased and fashion-oriented jewellery, especially lightweight and daily-wear segments.

Product Diversification:

Expansion into adjacent segments such as platinum, diamonds, fusion jewellery, or corporate gifting offers new revenue streams and allows for customer base diversification. These segments cater to evolving consumer preferences for premium, contemporary, and personalized products. They also enhance brand appeal across different age groups and income segments. This diversification reduces reliance on traditional gold jewellery and strengthens market presence.

Strengthening Supply Chain and Inventory Management:

Enhancing procurement strategies and inventory controls helps minimize wastage and prevent stock-outs, ensuring timely availability of high-demand designs. This leads to improved customer satisfaction, optimized working capital, and better cost efficiency. Streamlined operations also support faster response to market trends and seasonal demand.

Jewellery as a Lifestyle and Fashion Accessory:

Over the past few years, jewellery has transcended its traditional role as a store of value and is increasingly being viewed as a lifestyle and fashion accessory. Consumers are now looking for jewellery pieces that not only symbolize wealth but also reflect their personal style and preferences. This trend is especially prominent among younger generations, who view jewellery as a way to express individuality. As a result, the demand for innovative, stylish, and contemporary jewellery is growing. Our company, with its diverse portfolio of traditional, modern, and Indo-Western designs, is well-positioned to capitalize on this shift in consumer behavior.

Seasonal and Festival Demand:

Capitalizing on key buying seasons such as weddings, festivals, and auspicious occasions through targeted marketing and exclusive collections can significantly boost sales. These periods see heightened consumer spending, and tailored offerings enhance customer engagement. Strategic promotions during these peak times also strengthen brand recall and drive footfall.

Collaboration with Local Artisans and Designers:

Partnering with skilled craftsmen and local designers enables the creation of exclusive regional collections that resonate with cultural preferences and local aesthetics. This approach enhances product uniqueness, strengthens brand authenticity, and appeals to specific customer segments seeking traditional yet distinctive designs.

Sustainability and Ethical Sourcing Initiatives:

Communicating a commitment to ethically sourced gold and hallmark certifications strengthens brand credibility and builds consumer trust across both online and offline channels. It reassures customers about product authenticity and quality, enhancing the brand's reputation in a competitive market.

Loyalty and CRM Programs:

Strong customer relationship management, loyalty rewards, and after-sales services foster long-term customer retention and drive recurring revenue. These initiatives enhance customer satisfaction, encourage repeat purchases, and strengthen emotional connections with the brand.

Threats

Gold Price Volatility:

Fluctuations in gold prices can impact customer demand and profit margins, making pricing strategies and inventory management challenging.

Intense Competition from Unorganized and Local Jewellers:

Smaller, local jewellers often compete on price and credit terms, maintaining a loyal local customer base difficult to penetrate. The Indian jewellery market is highly fragmented, with a mix of unorganized players and established brands competing for market share. Local jewelers often compete on price, while branded players differentiate themselves through quality, design, and customer service. The increasing penetration of organized retail and e-commerce platforms means that even smaller players can now reach a national and global audience. In this highly competitive landscape, it becomes crucial to differentiate the brand effectively, build strong customer loyalty, and offer unique value propositions to stay ahead of the competition.

Regulatory Changes and Compliance Burden:

The jewellery sector is subject to various government regulations, including those related to taxes, customs duties, and trade policies. Changes in tax structures or import/export restrictions could significantly affect operational costs and pricing strategies. For example, any increase in the Goods and Services Tax (GST) on gold or jewellery products could lead to higher prices, potentially reducing demand. Additionally, more stringent regulations on the quality or certification of jewellery could lead to higher compliance costs. Monitoring regulatory developments and maintaining a flexible strategy will help navigate these challenges.

Evolving Consumer Preferences:

The fast-changing tastes of younger consumers can render traditional inventory outdated quickly, requiring companies to constantly innovate in design and assortment. The jewellery industry is highly dynamic, with consumer tastes shifting frequently based on trends, fashion, and cultural influences. The growing inclination towards minimalist, contemporary, and customizable jewellery designs may pose a challenge to traditional jewellery makers. Additionally, with the rise of online platforms, consumer expectations for faster delivery and greater convenience are also increasing. Companies that fail to adapt to these fast-changing preferences risk losing market share to more agile competitors who can quickly respond to trends. Continuous innovation and staying attuned to consumer needs will be crucial in navigating this threat.

Economic Slowdowns Impacting Discretionary Spending:

The jewellery industry is closely tied to the broader economy. Economic downturns, fluctuations in disposable income, and changes in consumer sentiment can negatively affect jewellery sales. When the economy slows down, consumers tend to spend less on luxury items such as jewellery, prioritizing essential goods and services. While the jewellery market tends to be resilient over the long term, short-term economic disruptions can impact sales and profitability. To mitigate this risk, it's essential to diversify product offerings, engage in cost optimization, and focus on building a loyal customer base that can sustain demand even during challenging times.

Supply Chain Disruptions:

Dependence on gold imports and logistics can expose the company to delays, increased costs, or shortages.

Counterfeit and Imitation Products:

The growing demand for jewellery, especially in the online space, has led to an increase in the circulation of counterfeit products. Fake or substandard jewellery can undermine consumer trust in the industry as a whole. Moreover, counterfeit products, often sold at lower prices, can erode the market share of legitimate businesses. Ensuring authenticity, offering guarantees, and educating consumers about the value of purchasing from trusted, certified brands will help mitigate this threat. Moreover, implementing robust anti-counterfeit measures will safeguard the integrity of the brand.

High Operational Costs of Physical Stores:

Retail outlets incur fixed costs such as rent, utilities, and staffing, which may pressure profitability, especially in slower sales periods. Premium retail spaces in high-traffic areas of cities are limited and costly, making it challenging to expand the physical presence of jewellery brands in prime locations. As urbanization continues and consumer demand shifts towards modern retail experiences, securing quality retail space becomes increasingly competitive. Additionally, rising rental costs for commercial spaces in metropolitan areas can squeeze profit margins. Companies must look for alternative retail strategies, such as partnerships with established retail chains, popup stores, or leveraging online platforms to expand their market footprint.

Security Risks:

Physical stores face risks related to theft, burglary, or fraud, necessitating stringent security measures that add to operational expenses.

Talent Acquisition and Retention:

Hiring and retaining knowledgeable sales staff and store managers, who can deliver personalized service, remains a key challenge.

Outlook

The gold jewellery industry is on the cusp of significant transformation, shaped by changing consumer expectations, evolving cultural narratives, and the gradual shift towards experiential retail. While gold has always symbolized tradition and trust, today's consumers increasingly seek meaning, personalization, and seamless service in their jewellery purchases.

Looking ahead, the Company envisions positioning itself not merely as a jewellery retailer but as a curator of experiences that blend heritage with modernity. This means going beyond transactions to build emotional connections with customers through storytelling, craftsmanship, and personalized service. Our retail spaces will evolve into destinations where customers can explore, learn, and celebrate the artistry behind each piece. Recognizing the demographic shifts and rising purchasing power in emerging urban and semi-urban centres, the Company plans to strategically expand its physical presence with carefully crafted stores that reflect local culture while maintaining consistent brand standards. This expansion will be supported by community engagement initiatives that foster loyalty and trust.

In product development, the Company will emphasize innovation anchored in tradition introducing collections that speak to contemporary lifestyles yet honour timeless craftsmanship. Customization will play a key role, allowing customers to co-create jewellery that embodies their unique stories and aspirations.

The Company also acknowledges the importance of sustainability and ethical practices as integral to future growth. By aligning with responsible sourcing and transparent hallmarking, we aim to build deeper consumer confidence and contribute positively to the broader ecosystem.

Though online sales are not currently part of our model, we are keenly observing how digital tools can augment offline experiences from virtual consultations and design previews to appointment scheduling and customer engagement to create a cohesive, omni-channel approach without compromising our core focus on personalized, face-to-face service.

In a landscape marked by volatility and change, agility and customer-centricity will be our guiding principles. By continuously listening to our customers, adapting to market trends, and investing in people and processes, the Company is poised to not only navigate challenges but also seize emerging opportunities for sustainable and meaningful growth.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF VEERAM SECURITIES LIMITED

In preparing the Financial Statements, management is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so. Those Board of Directors are also responsible for overseeing the Company's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the Financial Statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with SAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these Financial Statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with SAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the Financial Statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances. Under section 143(3)(i) of the Act, we are also responsible for expressing our opinion on whether the Company has adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements in place and the operating effectiveness of such controls.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the Financial Statements, including the disclosures, and whether the Financial Statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit. We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

Report on Other Legal and Regulatory Requirements
